

FINANCIAL IMPROPRIETY & WHISTLEBLOWER POLICY

Overview

Central Kansas Community Foundation's goal is to maintain the highest standards of personal and professional integrity, conduct and ethics. The success of the Foundation depends on public confidence, credibility and broad public support. The actions of the Foundation's Board of Directors, employees, consultants and volunteers directly impact the Foundation's standing in the community.

This policy reflects the practices and principles of behavior that the Foundation considers crucial to maintaining its success in the community. The Foundation expects that every member of the Board of Directors, committee members, employees, consultants and volunteers will understand and abide by this policy and its application to Foundation operations.

Central Kansas Community Foundation will carefully investigate allegations of financial impropriety in the use of Foundation's resources or property by all who are associated with the Foundation. The Foundation will take action against anyone found to have engaged in financial impropriety including disciplinary action, or civil or criminal prosecution when warranted.

The Central Kansas Community Foundation is committed to lawful and ethical behavior in all of its activities and requires directors, volunteers, consultants, and employees to act in accordance with all applicable laws, regulations and policies and to observe high standards of business and personal ethics in the conduct of their duties and responsibilities.

Whistleblower Policy and Procedures

The objectives of the Foundation's Whistleblower Policy are to establish policies and procedures to prevent or detect and correct improper activities, encourage each Foundation director, officer, employee and volunteer to report what he or she in good faith believes to be a material violation of law or policy or questionable accounting or auditing matter by the Foundation, ensure the receipt, documentation, retention of records, and resolution of reports received under this policy, and protect Reporting Individuals from retaliatory action.

Reporting Responsibility

Each Reporting Individual has an obligation to report what he or she believes is a material violation of law or policy or any questionable accounting or auditing matter by the Foundation, its officers, directors, employees, volunteers, agents or other representatives. Reporters must also notify the Foundation if an action needs to be taken in order for the Foundation to be in compliance with law or policy or with generally accepted accounting practices. The types of concerns that should be reported include, for purposes of illustration and without being limited to, the following:

- providing false or misleading information on the Foundation’s financial documents, grant reports, tax returns or other public documents;
- providing false information to or withholding material information from the Foundation’s auditors, accountants, lawyers, directors or other representatives responsible for ensuring Foundation compliance with fiscal and legal responsibilities;
- embezzlement, private benefit, or misappropriation of funds;
- material violation of Foundation policy, including among others, confidentiality, conflict of interest, safety policy, whistleblower, ethics and document retention;
- facilitation or concealing any of the above or similar actions

Reporting

Employees

Whenever possible, employees should seek to resolve concerns by reporting issues directly to his/her manager or to the next level of management as needed until matters are satisfactorily resolved. However, if for any reason an employee is not comfortable speaking to a manager or does not believe the issue is being properly addressed, the employee may contact the Foundation’s CEO or Board Chair. Whenever practical, reports should be in writing.

Managers/Supervisors

Managers are required to report suspected fraudulent or dishonest conduct to the CEO or Board Chair. While managers are expected to exercise reasonable care to avoid baseless allegations, they should not conduct their own investigations. Managers should avoid discussing the suspected conduct with anyone other than the CEO or Board Chair.

Directors, Consultants, and Other Volunteers

Directors and other volunteers may submit concerns to the CEO or the Board Chair. Whenever practical, reports should be in writing.

Reports may be submitted anonymously. Because it is impossible to seek additional information from a reporting individual about anonymous reports, such reports should include as much specific information as possible.

Handling of Reported Violations

The Foundation will investigate all reports filed in accordance with this policy with due care and promptness. The scope and other details of every investigation will depend on the nature of the report and the related circumstances. Matters reported to the CEO may be investigated by the CEO. However, the CEO shall promptly report the initiation of an investigation to the Board Chair. Matters reported to the Board Chair may be referred to the CEO for investigation or to the Grievance Committee. To protect the privacy of the individuals involved, the Foundation will handle the matter with as much discretion as the circumstances permit. Appropriate corrective action will be taken if called for based upon the facts determined by the investigation.

The Grievance Policy procedures should be examined as most Whistleblower situations would be taken to the Grievance Committee for the investigation of the potential violation.

Whistleblower Protection

No director, volunteer, or employee who makes a report in good faith under this policy shall be threatened, discriminated against or otherwise subject to retaliation. A volunteer or employee who retaliates against someone who has reported a concern in good faith is subject to discipline up to and including dismissal from the volunteer position or termination of employment. The Foundation will treat retaliation as a separate and independent violation of this policy. Whistleblowers who believe that they have been retaliated against may file a written complaint with the CEO or Board Chair.

Other Protected Conduct

Protection under this policy also extends to any director, officer, employee, agent, professional advisor, volunteer or other member of the Foundation community who:

- files, testifies or participates in a proceeding relating to possible fraudulent or dishonest conduct or suspected violations of the law;
- refuses to engage in improper activities that are reportable under this Policy; or
- refuses to carry out a directive in furtherance of fraudulent or dishonest conduct or other violations of law.

Acting in Good Faith

Anyone reporting under this policy must act in good faith and have reasonable grounds for believing the matter raised is a serious violation of law or policy or a material accounting or auditing matter. The act of making allegations that prove to be unsubstantiated, and that prove to have been made maliciously, recklessly, with gross negligence, or with the foreknowledge that the allegations are false, will be viewed as a serious disciplinary offense.

Confidentiality

Reports, and investigations pertaining thereto, shall be kept confidential to the extent possible. However, consistent with the need to conduct an adequate investigation, the Foundation cannot guarantee complete confidentiality. Disclosure of information relating to an investigation under this policy by Foundation staff, directors, or others involved with the investigation to individuals not involved in the investigation will be viewed as a serious disciplinary offense.

Conflicts of Interest

If the complaint involves the CEO, the board chair, or anyone charged with investigating the report, the involved individual(s) will not be permitted to participate in the consideration of the complaint or determine the action to be taken in response. In the event that the board chair has a conflict of interest, the investigation will be assigned by the next individual on the following list without a conflict of interest: governance committee chair, audit chair or president and CEO.
